Why Advertise with BMES?

BMES represents 5,000+ members of the biomedical engineering profession, including university researchers, corporate and medical professionals, and emerging career professionals. Advertising will reach university department chairs and managers who purchase millions of dollars in lab equipment yearly, as well as the next generation of developers and users of medical devices, scientific products and services.

BMES members are the leaders and future leaders in biomedical engineering and bioengineering. Members are actively engaged in biomedical engineering research, development, and education.
